Small group tours 2021

The highlights of Italy's Lake District

Some Italian regions do not have access to sea but they still have awesome islands, peninsulas, bays, cliffs and beaches. Experience six stunning lakes of the Lake District, from the more intimate to the sophisticated ones, second-home of celebrities and all kinds of VIPs.

This itinerary offers plenty to enjoy: stunning palaces, lush gardens "all'italiana", trains climbing the Alps through scenic journeys, wine tastings, dining at gourmet restaurants and a lot of water where to sail while admiring beautiful lakeshores, dotted with exclusive villas and picturesque villages.

Italy's best kept countryside secrets: Marche & Abruzzi

Marche & Abruzzi do not have a Colosseum, a David by Michelangelo or San Marco Square, but perhaps they have something more, the result of centuries of "gentle" presence of man who knew how to draw vineyards on the hills and build castles on rocky spurs. In Marche and Abruzzi beauty is in landscapes. Discover places that often even the Italians themselves do not know, except those who live there and know that they enjoy one of the highest quality of life in Italy. And for that reason, they keep this secret for them!

Northeastern Italy adriatic sea, culture and food

The journey from Venice to Trieste is just 150 kms long, but these 2 cities have been for long time fierce rivals before Trieste joined Italy in 1920. Both cities have fought for long time for being the most important port in this part of the mediterranean: Venice was the capital of the Serenissima Republic while Trieste was the harbour of the Habsburg empire. The great variety of landscapes matches the rich and variegated cultural heritage that was determined by a complex history and by the confluence of different civilizations in this territory. For this reason, the north eastern part of Italy looks like a small universe with many different traditions that need to be discovered.

Northwestern Italy and the Passion Play

Known for its royal past, Piedmont exhibits a great taste in food and wine and boasts ancient, elegant castles reminiscent of the days in which Italy's ruling dynasty called the region's capital, Admire expansive vineyards and stunning mountain ranges and attend the Passion Play in Sordevolo. For more than 2 centuries, every 5 years, the people this village near Biella, perform a passion play that is unique in Italy and worldwide; 400 amateur actors, a scenography that rebuilds a corner of Jerusalem in the 33 a.C. with Herod's palace, the Sanhedrin, Pilate's Praetorium, the Garden of Gethsemane, the last Supper room, the mount Calvary give life to the biggest popular theater festival in Italy.
